Democratic Friends Rejoice Over His Success at Senatorial Convention At Nashville.

DELEGATES HAVE RETURNED

Nomination Was Assured When Two Brown County Delegates Gave Him Support.

The democrats of Jackson county are rejoicing over the nomination of Edward P. Elsnar as candidate for senator from this district, and to-day he has been kept busy receiving the congratulations of his friends. It was thought before the convention that Elsnar would be the successful candidate, but it was hardly believed that he would be nominated on the first ballot. He had the lead on the other candidates as the eighteen votes from Jackson county were pledged to him and he needed only one more to insure him the nomination.

When J. H. Matlock took the chair after being elected permanent chairman, he made an excellent talk which was heartily endorsed. Upon the roll call for the votes from the three counties Brown county was called first. The chairman of the delegation announced that Brown would cast the six votes for Charles Morris of Salem, but he had hardly taken his seat before one of the Brown county delegates was on his feet and announced that he was voting for Elsnar. Another delegate from that county also stated that he intended to vote for Elsnar. The vote was taken by townships and the two delegates again gave their support to Elsnar. Jackson county was then called and cast eighteen votes for Elsnar. This gave him the majority, and before Washington county was called, Mr. Morris cast the six votes from his county for Mr. Elsnar. This gave Elsnar thirty-two and Morris six.

The convention adjourned immediately after the nomination and was made, and was not in session but a short time. The delegates who attended declare that the most of the time was taken up in the election of the chairman and with the speeches. About thirty-five democrats from Jackson county were present to "boost" for their candidate. Many of them made the trip in automobiles, while others went to Columbus on the traction car and went from there to Nashville on the passenger motor car.

After the convention closed the delegates spent some time in viewing the scenery about Nashville. The log jail proved very attractive and the county officials conducted several of the visitors through the building on an inspection trip. This is the only log jail in Indiana, and has been given much publicity. The walls are over a foot thick, and there are two doors at the front entrance. Cells are also arranged on the second floor which is reached by means of an outside stairway.

WAR RECORD

Of Family And Ancestors of Mrs. James Waskom.

Mrs. James Wackom, familiarly known as "Aunt Rachel," who resides near Sidney, in Grassy Fork township, is quite proud of the war record of her family and ancestors, and she certainly has cause to be so.

Her grandfather, John Fislar, was a soldier in the Revolutionary war. He lived in Pennsylvania at the time, and one day Geo. Washington came along and stopped for a drink near his home. Mr. Fislar was only twelve years of age, but he begged to join the army as a drummer boy. Geo. Washington promised to take care of him, saying that the boy could take the place of a man with the drum, and the latter could be given a musket. His parents permitted him to go. At the age of fifteen he was given a flint-lock gun, and all together he was in the army seven and a half years. He died in June 1832. There has never been a war in this country in which some of his descendants did not take part.

Her father was a soldier in the War of 1812; and she had two uncles killed in the battle of Tippecanoe within twenty minutes of each other.

Her husband and two cousins served in the Mexican war, and one cousin died in the service.

In the Civil war her family was represented by two brothers, one brother-in-law and seven nephews, one brother being killed in the service, and the other dying from disease contracted in the army. She also had two cousins in the Spanish-American war.

Her family on her father's side also had a similar war record. Her father hauled provisions for the soldiers in the battle of Tippecanoe, and his mother molded bullets for twenty-four hours for the same battle.

Mrs. Waskom is now nearing her 80th year. She was born in Grassy Fork township, where she has spent her entire life. There were thirteen children in the family, only two of whom are still living—Mrs. Waskom and her brother, Aaron O. Belding, also of Grassy Fork township, who is nearing his 79th year.—Brownstown Banner.

WILL OPEN SATURDAY

George Kraft & Company Will Conduct a Modern 5 & 10c Store.

The George Kraft & Company, 5 & 10c store, will be opened Saturday morning for business. The business is located in the Vehslage block on West Second street, and will be conducted in the most modern and up to date manner. The room has been recently remodeled and arranged especially for the new store and is most attractive.

The store will be operated in the same manner as the up to date 5 & 10c stores in the larger cities. The 5 & 10c articles will be kept separately. One side of the room together with one side of the long bin placed in the center of the floor will contain the five cent articles, and the shelving and bins on the opposite side will hold the ten cent goods. In a store of this character, the best system possible must be adopted, and this idea has been kept in mind in the arrangement of the retail department as well as in the stock room. Arrangements have been made for the stock room in the basement of the building and will be in charge of one man. When the goods are received they are arranged according to the department in which they are listed, and in this manner the various articles can be located with the least trouble. The stock handled is divided into thirty-one different departments.

On Friday night the new store will be open for inspection although no goods will be sold. Arrangements have been made with the high school orchestra to furnish music throughout the evening, and a general invitation is extended to the public to inspect the stock at that time. The store will open for business on Saturday morning.

The George Kraft & Company is less than a year old and conduct eighteen 5 & 10c stores. Seymour is the smallest city in which they have established a store but the manager, E. R. Rehm, is much encouraged over the prospects for a good business.

AFTER PHOTOS AND DATA FOR REPORT

Deputy Fish and Game Commissioners Will Make a Long Trip Down Muscatatuck.

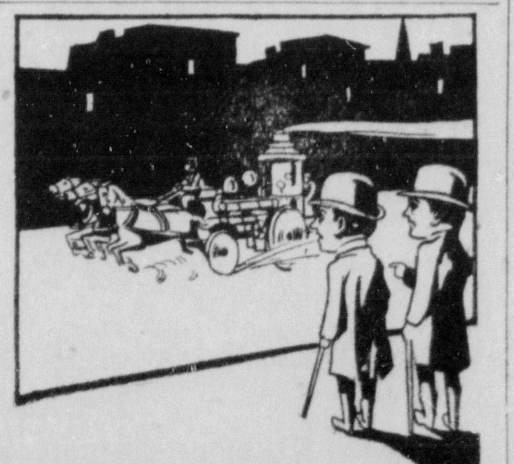

MILES' SON WILL GO ALONG

Will Take Pictures of Hedges and Traps For the New Bulletin Being Prepared.

Fred Ehlers and Dennis Gleason, deputy fish and game commissioners, who have been working in this vicinity for several days, will start on a trip down the Muscatatuck River the first of next week for the purpose of obtaining photographs and information which will be used in the report which is being prepared by State Commissioner George W. Miles. The deputy commissioners will be accompanied on the trip by Mr. Miles' son, who will take the photographs.

They have been looking after some alleged law violations in this county while they have been here, and one arrest for having a seine of illegal size has been made. It cost the offender a total of $33. For several years the commissioners have been giving special attention to hedges and traps and a large number have been destroyed.

It is said that there are parts of several hedges in the Muscatatuck river which have not been entirely torn away and the deputy commissioners desire to get pictures of these together with the photographs of several trips in order to show how they are operated. Such obstructions and traps result in the loss of a large number of small fish as well as the larger ones. The fishermen who use traps and hedges catch a large number of bass along with the less game fish and it makes it more difficult for the department to keep the streams and rivers stocked with the desirable kinds. It is said that the hedges which are found in the Muscatatuck were built several years ago, but have not been entirely destroyed.

You can rest assured that your property is insured in GOOD COMPANIES every time you hear the fire alarm, if WE place the insurance. The insurance policy is just as good as the company behind it, no more, no less—if the company is strong and properly managed, you'll enjoy prompt settlement of your losses—otherwise, in all probability, not. Our companies will stand investigation on any of these features. FRED EVERBACK AGENCY CO. Office over Loertz Drug Store.

Fish and Game Commissioner Miles is busy preparing the report which will cover the conditions in the entire state, and will not be able to make trip himself. The party will go several miles down the stream and will probably be gone for several days.

W. T. Edggar Dead.

William T. Edggar died Wednesday afternoon about 4 o'clock at his home on East Third street following a long illness of two years of Bright's disease. He was born in Virginia in 1846 and came to Seymour when fifteen years of age. The widow, one step-daughter, Mrs. Mary C. West of Indianapolis and five grand children survive.

The funeral services will be conducted from the residence Friday morning at 9 o'clock and at 9:30 from the First Baptist church by Rev. F. M. Huckleberry. Burial at Riverview.

Mrs. William C. Setzer Dead.

Mrs. William C. Setzer died Wednesday evening at her home near Grammer. She was the niece of Mrs. John Critcher of this city. Mrs. Setzer had been ill for several weeks, but since Sunday her condition was critical. On Sunday she fell into a sleep and could not be aroused although the assistance of three physicians was secured.

Joseph Hibner, who has been engaged in Seymour for nearly forty-five years, has closed out his store on Chestnut street and will leave in a few days for Jeffersonville. He will conduct a store at that place.

SMALL BOY SAVES TRAIN FROM WRECK

Supposed Attempt to Derail Big Four Train Thwarted by an Eight Year-Old Child.

TELEPHONE POLE SET FI

Was Almost Burned Off With Strips of Tin Placed Around The Base.

Connersville, Ind. June 13.—What is believed to have been an attempt to wreck a south-bound Big Four train here Wednesday night was thwarted by a child. Sinks Tatman, the 8 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Tatman was riding in an automobile with his uncle, George W. Ansted, along the Milton road, north of the city, when he saw a flicker of light in a clump, dense bushes close by the track. He cried out that he saw a fire, and his uncle halted the car and investigated.

As he entered the clump of bushes a man sprang up and hurried away. A fire was burning at the base of a big telegraph pole, confined to a point close to the ground by strips of tin, wrapped around the pole. The pole was burned nearly off, and a prop was set against it to press it toward the railroad track. The prop was removed, the pole sagged the other way, broke and fell, and two minutes later a south-bound Big Four train passed.

NEW DIRECTORY.

Enumerators Began Work in the City This Morning.

The enumerators who will collect the names and data in the city for the new directory, which will be published by the Seymour Republican, began work this morning. The directory will include the entire county, and much of the work in the townships outside of Seymour and the incorporated towns, has already been completed.

The city has been divided into four sections and one enumerator will cover each section. It is thought that they can complete their task in about a week. The names of all persons over twelve years of age will be published. Kenny Hassenzahl will collect the names in the northeast part of the city; Clem Roegge in the southwest section; E. H. Hays, the southwest division. All property owners will be indicated.

The last city directory was issued by the Republican five years ago, and since that time there have been many changes. A large number of persons have moved into the city and some have moved to other places since that time. Every effort will be made to make it as complete as possible. Such a directory is almost a necessity in a city of this size and as it will cover the entire county, will be found valuable to business men and others who desire to locate any person in the county.

The school of the German Lutheran church will hold its annual picnic at the city park tomorrow. This is one of the principal events of the year and a large number will be in attendance. The picnic will be held in the afternoon and evening.

which was not scheduled on the trip. J. H. Matlock, Henry Albrecht, O. O. Swails, Walter Droege, Elser and Charles Hess made a trip to Nashville in George Hess' car which was driven by his son, Elser. The trip over was delightful and the members of the party enjoyed the scenery of hills and valleys.

The party decided that they would leave the Brown county capital about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Shortly after noon Mr. Hess and Droege decided to investigate the "Catcher" hill. The ascent up the hill was made without trouble, but when they were returning home one of the wheels broke and did considerable damage to the transmission. A mechanic from Columbus was called and after examining the broken parts decided to send to Indianapolis for repairs. The machine was brought to the city and Mr. Hess will remain until it can be driven through to Seymour. The other members of the party came to Columbus in the Nashville-Columbus auto and arrived in Seymour about 8 o'clock this morning.

Marion Weddell, the standard bearer of the democratic party in Jackson county, worked industriously for the success of his candidate, Edward Elser, at the convention. On the way to Brown county Weddell became much worried when he saw on the highway a large road roller headed straight for Nashville. He thought that it belonged to one division of the democratic party and might be used with damage at the convention, but an owner assured Weddell that he did not intend to go to Nashville as he was endeavoring to press a few hills into the ground so that he could finish planting his corn.

Judge Joseph H. Shea attended the convention and made it known among the delegates and politicians that he is a candidate for the appellate judgeship from this district.

Deputy Sheriff Van Robertson spent most of his time at Nashville around the old log jail. He says that he would hesitate to place a prisoner in the building for fear that some one might set the place on fire and the prisoner would have little chance to escape. The walls of the jail are so thick that a prisoner would have trouble in making any one hear his shouts.

J. H. Matlock, the permanent chairman of the convention, has been complimented upon his speech when he accepted the chair.

City Treasurer C. W. Burkart was one of the delegates from Jackson township who went to Nashville to aid his friend, E. P. Elser, and to see that all secret ballots were eliminated at the convention. The city treasurer was road rolled by the secret ballot game in his late and lamentable race for county chairman, and gave Elser the benefit of his experience. Burkart, like one John Worth Kern, was polled enough votes for election, but in the final count was made the other fellow won. Burkart and Kern are still wondering who the "mysterious ones" could possibly be.

WILL AID IN VICE WAR

Post Office Authorities Will Watch General Delivery.

Indianapolis, June 13.—Asserting that at least one-half of the mail distributed at the general delivery windows in the Indianapolis postoffice has to do directly with the social evil, Postoffice Inspector W. C. Ela announced yesterday that his department will begin a determined fight to break up the indiscriminate delivery of letters at the windows. Mr. Ela has been making a careful study of the character of the mail distributed at the windows for the last three months, and his decision is based on the results of his investigation.

Mr. Ela asserted that a very large proportion of the persons use the general delivery to obtain letters about which it is essential that their relatives have no knowledge. He also believes that one-third of the women in Indianapolis resorts obtain their mail from relatives in other cities at the general delivery window to keep them in ignorance of the life they are leading here.

"After a careful investigation, during which I have passed many hours both day and night in watching the persons who obtain mail at the general delivery windows, I feel safe in saying that at least one-half of all the letters distributed are in some way connected with the social evil and aid in furthering it," Mr. Ela said.

"A large number of women and girls who engage secretly in immoral practices have their letters directed to the general delivery and call for them, thus preventing their being taken to their home addresses. I was astonished to find the extent and seriousness of this practice, but it is true that it exists to a very great extent."

"I have learned also that many women who are in local resorts go to the Federal building every day to obtain mail from their parents and relatives at home. I believe that one-third of these women do so to keep their parents and relatives in ignorance of the life they are leading in Indianapolis."

"This practice of receiving and distributing mail in this way to hundreds of women so that their dual life is kept secret must be stopped. It is also imperative that the inmates of resorts be prevented from keeping their parents in ignorance of their whereabouts in this way. The post-office does not exist for the purpose of aiding and abetting the social evil. Persons who obtain this kind of mail will be watched, and it may be that all mail of a questionable nature will be sent to persons' addresses even when addressed to the general delivery."

The authorities will obtain information from other cities as to post-office regulation. It is probable that some system will be adopted whereby the mail can be sent direct, and when persons are known to be receiving mail of questionable character they may be required to give addresses.

ACCEPTS CARNEGIE PENSION

Franklin College instructor Ends Educational Career.

C. H. Hall, who for thirty-seven years has held the chair of Greek in Franklin College, will retire at the end of the present college year. In anticipation of this step he has been admitted to the benefit of the Carnegie pension fund, his allowance to begin on July 1. The board of directors in its annual meeting voted to accept his resignation with grateful appreciation of his long and faithful service. Prof. Hall is known to a number of former students of Franklin who reside here.

Prof. Hall is a member of the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity and attended Franklin College until that institution temporarily closed its doors in 1872. He received his A. B. from Chicago University in the same year.

Prof. Hall came to the professorship of Greek in Franklin College immediately after his graduation from the Morgan Park Theological Seminary in 1875 and has devoted his entire life to the cause of Christian education. For nearly a score of years he held the office of vice president. No other member of the faculty, save one, has had a longer period of service and none has been more closely identified with the life of the institution. Repeated invitations to larger and more remunerative fields were steadfastly declined. His students, whose training has won favorable comment in theological seminaries, number many hundreds and are scattered throughout the United States and foreign lands.

In accordance with the policy being adopted by many first-class small colleges, the board of directors has voted to elect one head for the departments of Greek and Latin. H. C. Merrill, who has ably filled the chair of Latin for four years and who has had thorough training in Greek, has been elected to the position. Prof. Merrill will do the work this summer at the University of Chicago.

of arbitrary regulation is that a Democratic nominee must receive a two-thirds vote in convention. The rule originated in what was considered expediency. There is no more justice about it than in any other convention proceeding, in which a majority is deprived of its usual decisiveness. Mr. Bryan may or may not attack these rules on the open floor, but whatever he does will make the party take notice.—Globe Democrat.

Old Masonic Item.

From a copy of the Seymour Weekly Sun, dated Feb. 7, 1872, the following is found which will be of interest to local members of the Masonic fraternity:

"Ralph Applewhite, Capt. John Scott, and John H. Burrell of Brownstown, John M. Lewis, and F. M. Swope of Vernon township, Jacob Brown, and Elias D. Brown of Hamilton township, were in the city the greater part of last week, drilling in the several Chapter degrees in Masonry.—Each and all behaved well, and went home in good condition."

All the men mentioned in the above item are dead excepting J. M. Lewis, who is still hale and hearty and makes weekly visits to the city. He lives on his farm near Uniontown.

HOW MORGAN ALLAYED THE PANIC OF 1907

Pujo Committee Brings Out Some Inside History.

New York, June 13.—From R. H. Thomas, former president of the New York Stock Exchange, the Pujo money trust investigation committee has gleaned the inside history of the manner in which the panic of 1907, during Roosevelt's administration, was allayed by a loan of $25,000,000 made by J. P. Morgan and his friends at a time when call money rates went sky-high and there was no money in sight. Mr. Thomas said there was a conference of several financiers at which the situation was discussed and relief came soon after the announcement was made by Mr. Morgan that the money would be divided up into lots and loaned to brokers who needed it. Mr. Thomas claimed he did not know whose money was loaned, and neither would he admit that the rate was as high as Samuel Untermyer, counsel to the committee, suggested.

James G. Cannon, president of the Fourth National bank, also said he knew nothing of the alleged high rates that prevailed on that particular day. James B. Matson, president of the Stock Exchange, put in an interesting session on the stand under the vigorous quizzing of Mr. Untermyer, who sought to bring out in the limelight the methods by which the governing committee of the exchange punished those members who offended against the rules and regulations.

Mr. Untermyer introduced in the records minutes of meetings by which members were disciplined and the punishment meted out, ranging from a thirty days' suspension for manipulating the market, to being set down for four years for dividing commissions with customers. Mr. Untermyer brought out an admission that banks in all parts of the country send their surplus funds to New York to be used in call loans, which make possible the vast speculations.

A FINE WORK FOR THE BOY SCOUTS

Will Protect Others Against Rusty Nails.

LESSON IN COMRADE'S DEATH

When Little Donald McMurray Died at Connersville From Lockjaw Caused by Stepping on a Rusty Nail, the Other Members of His Camp of Boy Scouts Straightway Organized a Campaign Against This Peril.

Connersville, Ind., June 13.—The death of little Donald McMurray from lockjaw, caused by a rusty nail wound, has suggested a new line of duty for the Boy Scouts, lately organized here. They will hunt for rusty nails so exposed as to be dangerous, and will either clinch them till they are harmless, draw them and bury them, or carry the wood in which they are fastened to some place of safety.

The Murray boy was a member of the Boy Scouts, and his companions have solemnly declared war on rusty nails. They were encouraged in the declaration by the scout leaders and by two physicians who attested their gathering.

NOT FOR WILEY

Pure Food Expert Not a Candidate For Governor, Thank You.

Madison, Ind., June 13.—While in this city Dr. Harvey W. Wiley was asked about his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor of Indiana.

In True Western Style.

Nashville, Ind., June 13.—Sheriff Calvin arrested Jake and David Goodman, charging them with disturbing religious services. Two or Four Kinds of Women. Someone—probably one of those Frenchmen whose life job it was to make epigrams—once said that there are but two kinds of women: good women and bad women. Ever since then, the problem playrights have been giving the fiction into the mouths of straggled husbands and building their "big scene" around it. But don't you believe it. There are four kinds: good women, bad women, good bad women, and bad good women. And the worst of these is the last.—American Magazine.

Separating Lady's Finger Tips. Many boys pride themselves on their muscular strength. Let a girl place the tips of her forefingers together, keeping her elbows on a level with her shoulders, and challenge any boy to take hold of her wrists and separate them by a steady pull. Unless she be unusually weak or he be very strong, he will probably fail.—Woman's World.

WOMEN, AVOID OPERATIONS

Many Unsuccessful — And Worse Suffering Often Follows. Mrs. Rock's Case A Warning.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will show how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when often it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.
Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.
If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has restored the health of thousands of suffering women. Why don't you try it?

Temperance

ONE PHYSICIAN HAS REMEDY

Advocates Campaign Against Use of Alcohol Similar to One Used Against Tuberculosis.

Thirty years ago physicians were rather promoters of the use of alcohol both as a stimulant and as a remedial agent. Now everywhere on both sides of the Atlantic medical men are foremost opposers of the use of spirituous liquors as a beverage or even as an agent in the treatment of disease. They have been living rather securely in the tradition that alcohol had always been with them and that most peoples who had reached the crest of development had been free users of wine and beers, and that if alcohol carried with it any peril to the race, mankind would have degenerated long ago.

Close historical study shows that drinking was not so widespread in ancient days as now. The liquors contained less alcohol, and having no ice machines they could not brew beer all the year around. The strong drinks, whiskies, brandies, cocktails, bitters and absinthe had not been invented. Without railroads and without bottles there was less distribution.

With the wider diffusion of the idea that alcohol was a food, drinking became more general and alcoholism more noticeable. With the tremendous awakening of science in the latter part of the nineteenth century, and with the extraordinary progress of the science of medicine, it was natural that alcohol should have its share of investigation.

The facts which have been borne in upon medical men by such studies are overwhelming, and physicians are just beginning to understand how much responsibility rests upon them for the abatement of this evil.

All physicians are familiar with the large catalogue of physical disorders directly due to alcohol, such as cirrhosis of the liver, dropsy, multiple neuritis, heart disease, Bright's disease, inflammation of the stomach, arteriosclerosis, delirium tremens, wet brain, and the like. The number of these cases is constantly increasing. Between 20 and 25 per cent of all the insane owe their insanity to alcohol.

In answer to the question what had best be done for the prevention of alcoholism, Dr. Peterson of Columbia University thought that a campaign of education such as was being carried on in the fight against tuberculosis was the only efficient method of warding off the evils of drink. He advised having printed in brief form all the facts on this question which the medical profession now has at hand. In Paris they have statements regarding the dangers of heavy drinking, printed on posters and put up in every ward and waiting room of every public hospital and printed on every prescription blank of the Paris hospitals and dispensaries.

Dr. Peterson asked why our public-spirited citizens should not join in such a crusade. Children should be taught these facts in the schools. Every hospital and dispensary in the country should begin a similar method of disseminating them. Our asylums for the insane and epileptic ought to print the statistics of alcohol as a cause of insanity and epilepsy on every letter sent out. There are many shopkeepers, owners of department stores, druggists and others who would be willing to have instructions printed on their wrapping paper. Indeed, such facts should be kept as a standing advertisement in many of our newspapers with wide circulation.

He had himself tried the experiment of printing them in briefer form on his own prescription blanks and wished that the 132,000 other physicians in the United States might be induced to aid the movement to this extent, for they knew better than anyone else the fearful ravages of alcohol.

WHAT PHYSICIAN MOST FEARS

Alcohol Is Chief Injury to Nervous System, and Intellectual Powers—Benefit Societies.

In Great Britain a number of benefit societies keep abstainers and moderate drinkers in separate sections, and even the moderate drinkers must be temperate or they are not admitted to membership. These societies are obliged to render reports to the government, and such reports show an average of 19 days of sickness per year for the non-abstainers, or moderate drinkers, against 14 days or less for the abstainers.

Dr. William L. Reid of Scotland, who cites the statistics of these benefit societies, quotes this significant passage from Dr. Buchner, professor of medicine in Munich university: "Alcohol kills the largest number of victims by ambush, as it were, in that it undermines the powers of resistance to sickness, so that the apparently quiet, temperate drinker succumbs to a lung inflammation or to an infectious disease which the sound, normal body easily overcomes. But what the physician most fears in alcohol is chiefly the injury to the nervous system and the intellectual powers."

Reputation Is Light.

"Reputation is in itself only a farthing candle of a wavering and uncertain flame, and easily blown out, but it is the light by which the world looks for and finds merit."—Lowell.

UTILITY OF EXPERIENCE.

Because a man disapproves of all ways of doing things, is no reason why he should be accounted a "back number." In many ways the methods to which he has been accustomed all his life, and which were instilled into him from boyhood, are the foundation stones upon which the newer methods are built. Their basic principle is the same, but whereas in former days they were intended to meet only specific conditions, in these later days it is found necessary to develop them sufficiently to cover possibilities which were undreamed of a generation or so ago. Experience undoubtedly is the best teacher, and fortunate indeed is he who can turn the lessons of the past to good account in the solution of present-day problems. To do this, however, he must possess, besides the advantage his experience brings, sufficient insight and sufficient foresight to absorb something of the newer and more "up-to-date" ideas. Otherwise he will find himself crowded out and denounced as a "back number." Common sense should teach him that conditions are constantly arising which were never taken into consideration before, for the reason that they never existed, and common sense should also teach him that the methods formerly in use cannot always be depended upon to reach these conditions. It is absolutely necessary for a man to keep up his interest in the world of affairs and to take part in the activities of life if he wishes to continue to be a factor in their development.

To some, each new spring comes with the freshness of a first one, and there is an evanescent charm about it which no other season possesses. It is a long series of progressions, beginning with the first soft southern breeze, the melting of the snow and the earliest warble of the pioneer blue bird, a tiny patch of sky flown down to earth, the unlocking of mountain streams, the soft pussy willow buds and the twilight piping of frogs. There is premonition and expectancy in the air. Then, with alternating showers and sunshine, the dreary-looking earth takes on little by little a fresh robe of verdure, pale green at first, half hiding the skeleton outlines of the trees and wrapping the landscape in a misty dream of beauty. There are varying shades; here and there where there are oaks, splashes of brownish purple, and along the hillside great masses of blossoms, dogwood and judas tree and billowy reaches of white and pink orchards. All along the way in dooryards are white and purple lilacs loading the air with fragrance, and the fields are spangled with golden dandelions.

With regard to those widely advertised rats, of which the meat-eating one traveled 5,000 miles further than the vegetarian one, it may cause a reaction toward vegetarianism. For the bipeds may recall the traditional wisdom of the South American monkeys who can talk but are too wise to do it lest the white men set them at work.

The New York police have arrested Themistocles Phaedosuphaloph for loitering. They ought to let him go. Any man who can carry around a name like that can not be blamed for being weary.

It has been decided by a Chicago judge that the earning capacity of a performing monkey is $300 a week. If it is impossible for one to be a ball player one may still be a performing monkey.

A Boston clergyman says that American women wear too many clothes at summer resorts. Either he has never been at a seaside resort or another church trial is imminent.

Cleveland is now experimenting with pay-as-you-leave cars. The conductor who carries a woman two blocks beyond her corner will have a fine chance to get her nickel.

And now we have a dance known as the "Jelly wobble." Not having seen it, we are unable to speak with authority, but we have reason to believe that it is adulterated.

A Massachusetts parson refused a raise in salary. He was foolish. We never knew a congregation yet to overpay its minister, or even come close to doing it.

A Portland, Ore., man was fined $100 and sentenced to six months imprisonment for swearing over the telephone. He must have kept the line busy.

A Chicago cab driver has been nominated for congress. Still, considering Chicago cab drivers, the punishment doesn't seem too great.

Card playing, according to a doctor, has a bad effect on the brain. Sometimes it has a similar effect on the bank account.

In addition to being a fine sanitary precaution, the swatting is also a splendid exercise.

Gave Up Hope

"I suffered five years, with awful pains, due to womanly troubles," writes Mrs. M. D. McPherson, from Chadbourn, N. C. "They grew worse, till I would often faint. I could not walk at all, and I had an awful hurting in my side; also a headache and a backache.

I gave up and thought I would die, but my husband urged me to try Cardui, so, I began, and the first bottle helped me. By the time the third bottle was used, I could do all my work. All the people around here said I would die, but Cardui relieved me."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE

WAIT FOR THE CUE.

A young St. Louis girl wrote a brief note, closed her windows and turned on the gas. The note read:

I am sick and tired and out of money. There is no hope. Goodbye!

Poor lassie! She thought self destruction was the door of escape from her troubles. But was it? If you should be miserable in Illinois would it make you happy merely by moving over into Indiana?

Death is only a change of venue. "Which way I turn is hell," said Milton's Satan. "Myself am hell." That's it. You carry your misery in your self. The mere shifting of the scene will not suffice.

What a pity some one could not have said to the poor child—

"Now, my dear, you may be badly off, but thousands are in a worse state than you. Many have passed through your agony of mind and are happy now.

"The clouds will brighten. Wait.

"If you are hungry there are places like the Salvation Army or the Associated Charities, where they will feed you until you can look around. 'Nay, they will put a roof over your head until such time you can find fresh courage.

"If you are sick there are free dispensaries and clinics and hospitals, which you may employ without loss of your self respect. You are just worn of body and faint of spirit. Take a breath or two and make a new start. Do nothing rash.

"Wait a bit. Rest."

But, alas, the girl was alone, driven to bay, desperate! In her stress of hopelessness it seemed good to destroy her young body in order to ease her mind.

And pity 'tis she is only one of thou sands such.

It is as if an actor, unwilling to wait for the prompter's word, should rush from behind the scenes and plunge into the limelight of the stage and shout his lines—to the amazement of the auditors.

How explain his presence there?

And what must be his confusion and embarrassment? Would he not be hissed from the stage?

How much better to wait until the caller gives the cue for the part before going on!

Is it not time enough to go when one is called, trembling and hesitant, to say one's lines?

ALPINE FLOWERS OF MT. RAINIER.

Thousands of feet above the sea level, on Mt. Rainier, in the state of Washington, there is a wonderful natural garden of wild flowers. Some of them grow at the very brink of the glaciers, and others even push their way up through melting snow fields in late spring. These little known species would greatly enrich our alpine gardens if we could find out how to transplant and acclimate them, and undoubtedly some day we shall learn.—Country Life in America.

SIMPLICITY OF HAIR DRESSING NOW FASHIONABLE.

Women Favor Parted Locks—Puffs, Pompadours, Coronet Braids Going Out.

The present fashion of wearing the hair, softly parted, without puffs and braids, demands a naturally fine head of hair, and women with thin, faded hair are at their wits' end to know how to make it look well. The first step toward this end is to keep hair and scalp in healthy condition by the systematic use of a stimulating tonic.

HAY'S HAIR HEALTH contains the ingredients needed to destroy dandruff germs and encourage rapid growth of strong, new hair. Those hopelessly dry, faded looking locks grow soft, lustrous and youthful and the whole appearance is improved. You can get it at E. Loeb's, A. J. Fellens or Geo. E. Meyers' for 50 cents or $1.50 per bottle, or from the Philo Hay Spec. Co., Newark, N. J.

SYNOPSIS

Palmer, a Boston newspaper man, is sent to Georgia to report social and industrial conditions in a series of letters to his paper, Colonel Turpin, a southerner, thinks Palmer is a lawyer and has come to foreclose the Turpin plantation's mortgage.

Palmer undecides him, and the colonel, thinking that Palmer is a kinsman, invites him to be his guest at the Pines. Palmer meets Ellen and Bud Turpin and is hospitably received.

He becomes interested in Ellen and learns that the Turpin home is in grave peril through lack of funds. He wants to confess that he is not really a kinsman, but fails to do so.

Squire Hawkins, an elderly man, is courting Ellen. A party is planned in honor of Palmer, who writes his impressions of the place for his paper.

Ellen wears an old brocade gown at the party, and Palmer falls in love with her. Ellen and her friends take him to the wishing stone.

"You are my queen tonight," Palmer tells her, but she will not permit him to avow his love. He fears she intends marrying the squire to save the old home.

CHAPTER VII.

A Lieutenant of Volunteers.

I did not go west immediately after leaving the Pines, as I had intended doing, but remained within the state, hoping vainly to get some word of forgiveness from Miss Ellen. In my calmer moments I reviewed my visit to the Turpins, and the letter which she so condemned seemed to me to be my least offense. Though I understood her resentment and appreciated the position she had taken, I felt, however, that I had made a mistake in obeying her and now wished that I had remained at the Pines and confessed everything to Bud. I believed then, as I do now, that he would have understood me better than Miss Ellen had done and would have pleaded my cause for me, though I doubt whether he or any one else at that time could have shaken her determination not to admit me to her friendship again.

I would wake up each morning resolved to quit the state that day, but before noon I would change my mind, as I seemed utterly incapable of tearing myself from the neighborhood of the Pines. I ever looked and longed for some change of feeling which might blunt the edge of my grief, but none came, and my love seemed to grow stronger each succeeding day.

It was maddening to think that I had lost her, and what gave this sorrow a keener edge was the knowledge that I had forever put it out of my power to be of any service to her or to lend assistance to those she loved. I would become a prey at times to the keenest pangs of jealousy. I had no doubt that the squire would renew his suit, and I feared that she might be led in her bitter resentment toward me to accept his hand in marriage. I wrote her several letters begging for her forgiveness and if she could not grant me that to try at least to understand the feelings which had prompted me to write the letters which had been the means of separating us. I told her of the hopeless state of mind into which I had fallen and that I believed that my life would be aimless unless she would touch the magic spring which would set my blood aglow once more and arouse the dormant ambition within me to accomplish something in the world.

I wrote on and on. I exhausted my logic and mental powers to make her understand. I reviewed my visit to the Pines at length, from the moment I had met Colonel Turpin to the last interview I had had with her. My first mistake, I told her, had been in letting my introduction to her and her mother as a relative of the Kentucky Palmers go unchallenged. I explained how I believed myself to have been merely a boarder and the almost fatal mistake I had made in speaking to the colonel on the subject.

Such hospitality I was unaccustomed to, nor do I now fully understand the promptings of that kind old heart when he invited me to the Pines. I told her of my life and of my work; how I had come into her section with the bitterest feelings against it. My one ambition, I told her, was to arouse a hostile sentiment in New England against the political party then in power in nearly all the southern states. I did not conceal from her the satisfaction I had felt when this assignment had been given me nor my disappointment when I learned afterward that I was not to touch on politics in my letters. I told her of my resolution to leave the Pines on the day after I had arrived there, but how that resolve melted as snow before the sun when I had seen her and looked into her eyes; how step by step she had led me to look upon life with a broader and a kinder view and had brought me finally to a full understanding of her section and her people, and how she had made me know for the first time what my father meant when he was wont to say that all the two great sections of the country needed was to get acquainted.

the letter which had so offended her. I said, would be the means of bringing thousands of persons to a proper appreciation of her home and and the southern character, just as the facts embodied in it had caused me to change the opinions I had held once. I did not believe my offense was past forgiveness, and I begged her that in a spirit of fairness she would try to appreciate the impulses of one whose instincts seemed to be to write of things as they are and whose training had led him always to seek out those things to describe which were novel and of interest. I followed this letter with another, but with no better result. I wearied the postal officials with questions and got them to go through the general delivery a half dozen times a day.

I do not know how it would have ended had the thought not come to me, as it by inspiration, that I could at least be of some small service to her, yet keep my identity in the background. After waiting in Augusta one more week in anxious hope that each day might bring a letter from her I took the train for Atlanta and there began a search for the holders of the mortgage on the Pines. With good references I presented myself at the office of one of the large trust companies and authorized its agents to trace the mortgage and to secure it at any cost. After weeks of incessant work we traced the holders somewhere in the southern part of the state, and an agent of the company was dispatched there to take up the mortgage. The utmost caution was necessary to secure the consent of Bud without exciting his suspicion. The holders of the paper were instructed to say that they had to sell and that they had found a company whose business it was to lend money willing to accept it. Nothing was said about reducing the interest. It was not until the transfer had been accomplished that it was made known to Bud that the company had reduced the interest from 6 to 4 per cent.

I had followed the transaction with the keenest interest, and the officials, who were in my confidence, became as interested almost as I. I told them that under no circumstances were the Turpins to know anything about me; that everything must be done through them. They understood the necessity of secrecy, as I told them that the beneficiaries of this act would reject it and force a foreclosure had they any reason to suspect that the interest had been reduced through any desire to assist them in any way. Satisfied that I had done something for Miss Ellen, I determined to leave for the west.

It was while going to take my train that a circumstance occurred that delayed my departure for several days more. I was late and was hurrying through the depot when I ran fairly in the arms of Bud. I did not recognize him at first, and it was only when I stepped back with a conventional apology that I saw the strong outlines of his face and knew it to be that of Miss Ellen's brother. It was only a momentary glimpse I had of him, but he looked older and more careworn, it seemed to me. He seemed preoccupied and did not recognize me, for, lowering my face, I hurried past him and reached the waiting room. I abandoned all intention of taking the train that day, for I at once suspected that my secret had become known and that Bud had come to Atlanta with the determination of either having the transfer revoked or else forcing me to accept the former interest on the mortgage. By a circuitous route I reached my hotel and, sending for a messenger, dispatched a note at once to the company informing the officials of the arrival of Mr. Turpin.

The next day I learned that Bud, thinking the transaction somewhat queer, had come to Atlanta to see about it himself, and I strongly believed that Miss Ellen had urged him to it to satisfy herself that I was in no way connected with the benefit which those at the Pines would derive from the reduction of the interest. Bud demanded to know to whom his family was indebted for this unlooked for piece of generosity. My agent told him that these mortgages had become very valuable and that his company had been authorized to secure as many of them as possible and to reduce the interest on them to 4 per cent. Satisfied that the matter was a business

DAILY AND WEEKLY

108 West Second Street

transaction, Bud left for the Pines again and I had reason to believe, with a lighter heart.

Lost in the background and congratulating myself on the success of my scheme, I wandered into the west. The face of Ellen was ever before me. Night and day the picture of her, clad in a simple gingham frock, her sleeves rolled up and her hand pointing in the direction of the old memorial bridge, was ever in my mind. Several times I tried to resume my writing, but my pen seemed to drop from my fingers or else my mind refused to respond to my will. In dejection of spirit my head would fall over on my arms, and I would sit for hours dreaming of the Pines and Miss Ellen. In my apathy I journeyed to Japan, and for a while life seemed brighter in that mosaic looking country; but, go where I would, there was ever recurring to my thoughts the picture of Miss Ellen, and my heart would swell and tears rush unbidden to my eyes as I remembered our parting. There was talk of war between my country and Spain, but this interested me little. I seemed to have lost my sense of the proportion of things. Resolved at last to take up the thread of my life again and begin anew, I started for the States. Almost the first thing I learned on reaching the Pacific slope was the fact that war had been declared. The will of an indignant people had swept aside politics and diplomacy and had surged with such force about the nation's rulers that no one dared stand in its path.

The martial spirit of my ancestors had never burned within me, for my mind had always been set in other directions, and my pursuits were those of peace. Never hesitating for a moment, however, I started across the continent. By telegraph and letters I collected my scattered influences and, backed by my delegation in congress, asked the governor of my state for a commission. It was secured without much trouble, and I was mustered in the service as a first lieutenant of volunteers in one of the regiments from Massachusetts.

HAVE BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Sage and Sulphur Will Restore Color and Lustre to Faded Hair.

What a pity it is to see so many people with thin, wispy hair, faded or streaked with gray, and realize that most of these people might have soft, glossy abundant, hair of beautiful color and lustre if they would but use the proper treatment. There is no necessity for gray hair under sixty-five years of age, and there is no excuse for anyone young or old having thin, straggling hair, either full of dandruff or heavy and rank smelling with excessive oil.

You can bring back the natural color of your hair in a few days and forever rid yourself of any dandruff and loose hairs, and make your hair grow strong and beautiful by using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. For generations common garden sage has been used for restoring and preserving the color of the hair; and Sulphur is recognized by Scalp Specialists as being excellent for treatment of hair and scalp troubles.

If you are troubled with dandruff or itching scalp, or if your hair is losing its color or coming out, get a fifty-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist, and notice the improvement in the appearance of your hair after a few days' treatment. The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous services.

THE SITUATION STILL MENACES

Cuba Regarded As a Smoldering Fire.

MIGHT BREAK OUT ANY TIME

To Avert This Possibility Our Government Will Not Withdraw Any of the Warships Now in Cuban Waters, Nor Are Any of the Marines Ashore to Be Taken Back to the Ships Until Peace Is Assured.

Washington, June 13.—According to reports received at the state department, all is quiet, with more than 1,000 marines stationed on Cuban soil and the island literally surrounded by battleships and other naval vessels.

Yet the Cuban situation is still regarded as just exactly as menacing as it has been since the beginning of the present negro uprising. None of the ships now off the Cuban coast is to be withdrawn, nor are any of the marines ashore to be taken back to the ships. In fact, the Washington authorities are unanimous in believing it is the presence of these marines and warships that is responsible for the quiet now reported in the regions regarded as the trouble districts.

President Gomez has assured Rear Admiral Osterhaus that the insurrection will be put down in ten days, according to the report of that officer made to the navy department. This assurance was given by the Cuban president when the American commander-in-chief called on him at Havana, where the Washington and Rhode Island are now anchored. It was recalled, however, that about two weeks ago President Gomez gave out an interview predicting the end of the uprising in ten days from that date. It is also known here that he and the officials under him have repeatedly given out misleading, if not false, reports regarding the progress of events in the disturbed regions.

The play of the Gomez government in sending Speaker Ferrarra of the Cuban house to Washington, has not been lost on the state department. Ferrarra on his first day in Washington made an impassioned address in the house, pleading that Cuba be let alone, and asserting that the uprising amounted to nothing.

The purpose of this was revealed in dispatches received here from Havana stating that the Cubans were delighted that as a result of Ferrarra's representations the United States had decided to call off its warships. This, of course, is not correct.

Ferrarra is still in Washington and is much in the company of members of the house. Upon every occasion he is saying that the negro uprising amounts to nothing. He will be the dinner guest of Secretary of State Knox this evening. That the ultimate purpose of his visit has to do with the placing of a new loan by the Gomez administration is still believed here.

Rebels Given More Time.

Havana, June 13.—The period set for rebels to lay down their arms and receive clemency having ended, General Monteguido has issued a manifesto extending the time to June 22. While the government declares that this action was taken because some of the rebels had not learned of the offer of clemency, it is plausibly argued that the extension is for the purpose of buying off General Estenoz, the rebel commander-in-chief, and General Ivolet, his chief assistant. The federal officers at the front are killing negroes promiscuously wherever found. Scores, perhaps hundreds, of such murders have already been committed.

MORE FOR TAFT

Fifty-Two Additional Delegates Added to Mr. Taft's String.

Chicago, June 13.—The contest over the six delegates from Arizona resulted in the Taft delegates being seated by a viva voce vote, with all the Roosevelt committeemen roaring their noes as never before. The next contest was the only one from California, the two delegates from the Fourth congressional district. The Taft delegates were seated by a vote of 37 to 16.

The next contest taken up was over the six delegates-at-large from Louisiana and from each of the seven congressional districts. Upon motion of Harry S. New the Taft delegates were seated by a vote of 49 to 2. The Michigan six delegates-at-large, instructed for Taft, were seated by a viva voce vote, the Roosevelt men voting "No" vociferously. The Mississippi contests involving eighteen delegates, also by a viva voce vote, ended in the Taft delegates being seated.

Up to date 141 delegates have been awarded to President Taft and one to Colonel Roosevelt.

The Senate vs. the Army.

MARRIED.

KLEINMEYER-SCHMIDT

A quiet but prettily appointed wedding occurred at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening when Miss Bertha Kleinmeyer became the bride of Mr. Oscar Schmidt. The ceremony was pronounced by the Rev. E. H. Eggers, pastor of the German Evangelical church at their newly furnished home, 214 East Fourth street. The house was beautifully decorated with an abundance of roses, palms and ferns which were arranged in a very artistic and attractive manner.

Promptly at the appointed hour Miss Martha Schmidt, sister of the groom began Mendelssohn's wedding march. Preceding the bride and groom were Miss Della Kleinmeyer, sister of the bride, and Mr. Alvin Ortstadt, best man. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white organdy over messeline, and carried a large shower bouquet of bride's roses.

Immediately after the ceremony the guests were invited to the dining room where an elegant wedding supper was served. Only the immediate relatives were present. Misses Elsie Ortstadt and Edith Garvey assisted in the dining room.

The bride and groom are popular young people and are active in the work of their church. Mr. Schmidt is engaged as a harness maker and has a host of friends. For several years the bride was a clerk at the Gold Mine and became very popular because of her pleasant and winning manner.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt are at home on East Fourth street.

Linen Shower.

One of the prettiest affairs of the season was a linen shower given Wednesday night by Miss Albertine Bruenger in honor of Miss Pearl Cordes, a bride-elect of this month.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with pink and white hearts and butterflies and an abundance of spring flowers prevailing throughout the house.

Dainty white rice bags tied with pink ribbons were given as favors. The ices and cake were in pink and white. Covers were laid for fourteen intimate friends of the guest of honor. Miss Cordes received many beautiful embroidered pieces of linen. A most enjoyable evening was spent by all present.

PARTY DISASTER NOW IS THE CRY

Roosevelt Campaigners Seeking to Awe Taft Delegates.

PREACHING GOSPEL OF FEAR

Facing the Certainty That Taft Will Enter the Convention With Thirty-six Votes to the Good, Flinn and Dixon Are Holding Up Fear of Party Defeat as a Means of Securing Defection in President's Ranks.

Chicago, June 13.—Five days before the first session of the Republican national convention, an analysis of the situation can be simply and directly portrayed. The national committee will finish its consideration of the contests late Saturday night. There is no reason to believe that the verdict which has been given in 99 per cent of the contests, in which the Roosevelt national committeemen have joined, will be different when all of the contests have been decided. By Saturday night, therefore, President Taft, under these circumstances, will have 576 delegates, or thirty-six more than will be required for his renomination.

A table carefully prepared by interested ones who have gone over the situation state by state, with the accepted information that all the contests will be decided by Saturday night, gives President Taft at that time 574 votes, ex-President Roosevelt 458, Senator Cummins 10 and Senator La Follette 36; total, 1,078.

The Roosevelt managers with William Flinn of Pittsburgh as the chief executive, have begun efforts to offset the foregoing facts which confront them most emphatically. Mr. Flinn's telegrams to bunches of Roosevelt delegates instructing them to rush to the battlefield met with enthusiastic responses. These bunches of Roosevelt delegates have come from many states. They came ahead of their fellows for the purpose of co-operating with Mr. Flinn and Senator Dixon in their efforts to impress upon Taft delegates the chief argument advanced by Roosevelt's campaigners—that President Taft's renomination would not only bring defeat to Taft, but would result in defeat for all Republican state tickets and would also bring defeat to candidates for all local offices and would leave the house of representatives in the hands of Democrats by another overwhelming majority. These arguments are to be used from this time in the effort to divert from President Taft enough delegates to defeat his renomination and to accomplish the nomination of ex-President Roosevelt.

Mr. Flinn announced that if the Taft managers proceeded with their plans to "steal" the nomination, that in practically every state where Colonel Roosevelt was the victor in the primaries the electors would be instructed to vote for the ex-president in the electoral college whether or not he appeared in the field as a candidate. The Taft chieftains ridiculed this declaration and declared that public opinion would not sustain these electors in such a course. The Taft chieftains interpreted the utterances of Flinn to mean an admission of defeat for ex-President Roosevelt's cause in this convention.

It is known that there are wide differences of opinion in the Roosevelt camp. For instance, Flinn believes that Roosevelt should come here and take charge of his own forces. George W. Perkins, who has arrived here with Governor Stubbs after their visit to Colonel Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, was not inclined to coincide with Mr. Flinn and neither was Governor Stubbs. Mr. Perkins said:

"If the Taft steam roller keeps up its present methods the voters in the convention for Roosevelt will be practically unanimous. The people and the delegates are not going to stand for this kind of theft."

Flinn and Dixon declared that the insinuations that they were tampering with Taft's southern delegates or any statement to that effect was "just cheap, ordinary lies."

Knights and Ladies of Security Plan An Outing.

The Knights and Ladies of Security have arranged to spend Sunday at Fairview Camp near Bells Ford. The members of the lodge will leave here in the morning in hacks and have planned a very pleasant day. They will take their dinners along which will be served at the cabin.

The Fairview Camp was established some time ago by a number of fishermen and many enjoyable outings have been held there. When the cabin was erected it was in the shade of a large spreading elm tree, but last spring the high waters washed the bank away and the tree was uprooted. The waters carried the cabin several feet from the place where it was built and it was slightly damaged, but has been repaired and is in good condition. The Knights and Ladies of Security have planned several picnics and outings for the summer.
